DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 16-18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The specification fails to teach an invention where “the positive retention of the communication device to the ear results from a space between the first section of the housing and the self-retaining element (claim 16). The specification further fails to teach an invention where the dimension across the space between the first section of the housing and the self-retaining element is .118 inches +/- .054 (claim 17). The specification still further fails to teach an invention where the space between the first section of the housing and the self-retaining element becomes gradually smaller as the self-retaining element extends further away from the sound delivery tube (claim 18).

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 2643

2. Claims 13 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 13, the language “wherein the ear comprises a pinna, a sulcus, and a concha” should not be used as claim language since it is part of a human body and not part of the communication device.

Regarding claims 16-18, it is unclear as to what element in the drawing constitutes the “first section”. It is also unclear as to what element in the drawing constitutes “a space between the first section of the housing and the self-retaining element”.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-7, 9-13, 15-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Henderson (2,939,923) or Jelonek et al (4,381,830).

Henderson or Jelonek et al discloses a communication device for use behind an ear comprising a housing (17; 36, respectively); sound tube (315; 18); self-retaining element (155; 10) coupled to the sound tube and rests beneath an inferior crus of the ear (concha-insert).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 8 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Henderson or Jelonek et al.

Regarding claim 8, Henderson fails to disclose that the self-retaining element is molded onto the sound delivery tube. However, Official Notice is taken that earmolds or eartips molded onto the sound delivery tube is well known in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to mold the sound tube of Henderson into the self-retaining element (earmold) for the purpose of providing a better attachment between the two.

Regarding claim 14, Henderson or Jelonek et al teaches the communication device is wired rather than wireless as claimed. However, Official Notice is taken that hearing aid devices implemented in wireless form are well known in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the hearing aid of Henderson or Jelonek et al wireless for wireless desirability.
